THE NEW FASHION PERIOD, 1903.

Style Today is Near to Nature.

In its inception and design it differs markedly from the accepted models of any previous period. Progress may be said, constantly betterward, from the time when dress designers aimed rather to display the dress than to enhance the beauty and grace of its wearer. Then it was mainly a question of color scheme and trimming artifices which might be very effective as a decorative part of a dress and assemblage.

But taken by itself it looked most glaringly conspicuous, and very often was entirely out of beauty tone with its wearer. Now, at last, style has evidently seen the error of its way, for it is drawing near to nature. The Spring's leading creations bear witness that the world's greatest designers have come to realize that nothing is fairer to the female form; that anything which destroys comfort must destroy beauty; and that is the simple reason why Mrs. M. Love who has charge of the Dressmaking Department at Kaufman, Straus & Co's, is meeting with such phenomenal and deserved success.

Mrs. Love's idea is to impart to every gown a style in individuality that nothing can lose. The gowns which are turned out by this high class modiste are the very perfection of fit and style. They are marked by that indefinable smartness of cut and correctness of detail which is today so essential to a well dressed woman.

Kaufman, Straus & Co., 12 and 14 W. Main St., Lexington, Ky.

Respectfully invite you to pay Mrs. Love a visit, and should you leave an order for a new gown, it will be both a revelation and a pleasure.

The Kaufman, Straus & Co. spring frocks of every kind of Dry Goods and wearing apparel for women are complete, and present by large odds the complete outfit for this season of the country.

LETTER XI.

NAZARETH; "WHERE HE WAS BROUGHT UP."

It almost makes the heart stand still, to rest again on these hills trodden for thirty years by those blessed feet that, for our advantage, were once accursed and nailed to the ignominious cross. Empires have come and gone; nations have come and gone; strange peoples dwell in all the hamlets of this land; yet in a wide sweep of thirty miles in every direction from the summit of this high hill against whose eastern foot little Nazareth leans, the same splendid and composing scenery glowed in vernal beauty under the gentle eye of Jesus, that meets my rapt gaze today.

The shoreless stretch of the blue Mediterranean, shimmering under a blazing sky and beating its white surf against the palm crowned bay; the graceful majesty of Mt. Carmel springing sheer 550 feet from the coastless sea and rising 1730 feet high eighteen miles from its western cliffs, crowned and clothed from summit to base with redolent shrubs and a profusion of flowers of every hue; the broad, emerald plain of Esdraelon; Gilboa, Little Hermon and the wooded cone of Tabor; Gilead and Bashan beyond Jordan; and far north the snowy crown of Hermon on whose dazzling form the same sun shines that once was dimmed by the shining raiment of the Nazarene when transfigured on that "holy mount."

These scenes yielded up to Him their storied lore and charmed him with their restful beauty; but it is His own story and the infinite charm of His personality that gives every scene in the circle of vision from the hills of Nazareth with a spiritual presence and a divine power over the heart.

The rich vale of Nazareth is about one mile long and half a mile wide. It breaks down in the high plateau of Galilee about 500 feet below the ridges of fifteen encircling hills, that shut out the village from the once busy world around it. This delicious seclusion and quiet were found beneath the hills from whose tops the children might see the whole world march by for the conquest of war and the victories of peace.

Only one mile and a half over the rugged rocks of the southern hills, the whole plateau falls by precipitous cliffs 900 feet to the plain of Esdraelon.

Riding from Haisa 23 miles to the crest of the southern hill, beautiful Nazareth flashed upon my vision, with its fair white homes, set in emerald groves of olives, figs, vines and pomegranates, gleamed every where with wild profusion of brilliant flowers, the old village nestling most picturesquely within its terraced streets against the side of the western mountain. A year had intervened between my visits, yet everything looked as familiar as if I had spent here all the intervening months.

In company with two choice noblemen, Dr. Buckner, of Ky., and Dr. Wilcox, of Colorado, I traversed my way up the terraced streets and steep mountain side to this royal summit. The Scripture reading, ardent prayers, devout conversation and silent meditations consecrated anew this sacred hill forever in our memories. Once on the slope of the hill several scores of beautiful girls were encountered in long procession who sang in the good old American tongue: "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by," and they showered ed upon us numerous bouquets of Nazareth flowers. These girls were from the English Protestant Orphanage, an institution worth a trip across the Atlantic to visit. The magnificent building occupies a commanding position on a terrace overlooking Nazareth.

Multitudes of orphan girls have spent the happy days of childhood in this well-ordered and wonderful home, and have gone forth from this charmed spot to convey its blessings to the myriads of Syria. I was granted the privilege of searching out all its interesting secrets from the laundry, bake room and kitchen to the dressing room where the girls were adjusting the neat gowns all made by their own hands. Being a connoisseur of the dressmaker's art, I inspected the sewing with care, and issued an oral certificate of approval. I likewise sampled the victuals, and have a piece of the bread for a souvenir. The girls all gathered at the table for luncheon, and sang for us again some sweet songs of Jesus. Upon invitation of the queenly lady in charge, I made a brief speech to the girls—an exquisite pleasure to me.

From this holy place we descended to the copious fountain where Mary used to fill her red water jar with five gallons of pure, sweet water, swing it gracefully to her head take the little Jesus by the hand, and lead him under the olive and the vine to their happy little home. W. T. Tins.

News From Tobacco Growers.

About 25 of the 40 counties in the Burley tobacco section have been organized and are pushing the work of obtaining signatures for contracts.

On April 23, Vice-President W. B. Hawkins, together with Prof. J. W. Newman and C. B. Sullivan, of Woodford, John Bots, of Shelby, E. E. Barton, of Pendleton, and Jas. R. Rogers, of Bourbon, went to Georgetown, Brown county, Ohio, and organized a branch of the Association. A large crowd was in attendance at the court-house and nearly all the tobacco growers present signed the agreement. Mr. Jacob Fobst, Vice President of the Brown county Farmers' Institute, was chosen chairman, N. S. Mann, Secretary and Lee Ritchie, Executive Committee.

Messrs. C. B. Sullivan and J. W. Newman recently organized Franklin county. Thomas Scott was selected Chairman, Morton Bailey Secretary and J. W. Lawrence, of Peaks Mills, Executive Committee. About 400 acres were signed at the meeting.

It is reported that over five sixths of the entire acreage of Woodford county has been pledged to the Association and that every tobacco grower in Anderson county has signed the contract.

Organizations have been formed recently by W. B. Hawkins and C. B. Sullivan in Mason and Lewis counties.

Mr. Robert Sale, of Gallatin county, reports organizations formed in Switzerland county, Ind., and Nicholas county, Ky. In the latter county Mr. L. D. Young was selected Chairman and Mr. Myers Secretary.

Messrs. Jno. Gilligan and J. T. Jett report that more than 600 tobacco growers, with 3,500 acres, have signed in Bracken county, and that there will be no difficulty in signing 90 per cent. of the growers of that county.

Charles H. Robb, assistant attorney for the Department of Justice, has been appointed Assistant Attorney General for the Post-office Department.

JAMES HOWARD

Gets Life Imprisonment for the Murder of Governor Goebel.

Report as Sent Out from Frankfort to the Daily Press.

For the third time a jury has found Jim Howard guilty of the assassination of Gov. William Goebel, and for the second time his punishment therefor has been fixed at life imprisonment in the State penitentiary.

The verdict was returned into court at 10:55 o'clock Thursday morning after about four hours' deliberation.

The verdict of life imprisonment was generally expected, though the officers of the Commonwealth in the prosecution expected the infliction of the death penalty.

The verdict seemed to please the most interested man present, the defendant.

HOWARD SMILES.

For the first time in several days a smile crossed his face, and immediately upon the withdrawal of the jury from the room several women, who have been his sympathizers since his arrest, flocked to him to grasp his hand and offer comfort. Attorneys Smith and Violett, of his counsel, gave reassuring words to Howard while grasping his hands. Neither Attorney Scott nor Attorney Little was in the room. The wife of Howard seemed as little affected by the verdict as if the man who pays its penalty were no relation or even an acquaintance. She said not an audible word.

Within a few minutes of the reading of the verdict Judge Cantrell ordered the prisoner returned to jail, and Mrs. Howard accompanied him from the courtroom.

APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN.

When seen after adjournment Attorney Smith, of Howard's counsel, said that the only statement he desired to make was that an appeal would be taken, and preparations for it would begin at once.

The jury deliberated for about four hours in making the verdict. On the first ballot taken in the juryroom it was the unanimous opinion that Howard was guilty. The next ballot taken was as to punishment. Nine of the jurors voted for the infliction of the death penalty and three for life imprisonment. Then eleven for hanging and one for life imprisonment. This was Juror William Chapman. He stuck it out for half an hour, and the other jurors finally came to him, making the verdict as returned into court.

A falling out between the citizens of Brackettville, Texas, and General Fred Grant over some of the saloons of the town, is quite stupid from the point of view of both of them. General Grant said that the saloons were ruining his soldiers by getting them drunk, while the Brackettvilleans declare that this is a libel, and that the soldiers are ruining the town by coming there to get drunk.

A little life may be sacrificed to a sudden attack of group, if you don't have Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand for the emergency. 42 m

At Bloomington, Ind., thirty-eight unmasked men broke into a house and whipped two white girls and a negro man. The older girl and the negro were whipped with a barbed wire. Some of the white-caps were recognized and warrants will be sworn out by the victims.

EQUALITY.

Men have certain inalienable rights. That is to say, there are certain principles of natural justice which affect all men equally. So far as the government affects men, it should preserve this equality. What is law for one man should be law for another. No restrictions should be placed upon the pursuit of happiness for one man from which another is exempt. It cannot properly be made a crime for one man to steal and a virtue for another man to embezzle. What one man earns should not be taxed into another man's pocket. Opportunities, so far as the government and the law affect them, should be made equal, so that the natural abilities of men may have an equal chance to achieve their best.

That is the argument. Then, as if to leave no room for doubt or quibble as to what the Declaration meant, there follows a long list of grievances showing how the particular government against which they were rebelling had operated unequally, so that another government which would preserve that equality became necessary.

To the end of equality to all men the people should labor, and if the correct theory is not embodied in our platform it should be, for all men according to their ability should be equal in opportunities.

Democrats, Saturday is the day for you to name your choice for State offices and as you vote so will the results be.

The arrangement on the ballot for May 9 primary places the name of Robert L. Greene last. He is a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. The Scriptures say: "The first shall be last and the last first." The voters should be careful to mark the ballot for Greene. He is the best clerk in the State; and if he should be elected Capt. W. T. Havens, of this city, will be retained as a deputy. Vote for Greene! ***

IT LOOKS LIKE JOHN C. WOOD.

This Railroad Commission district, the third, is hopelessly Republican, and because it is, we would have as their candidate, their best, for their best is bad enough sure. John C. Wood has made a good official, he has been honest in his decisions and requirements both as to the railroads and the people. And we are honest when we say he is a public man of which his party should be proud to show their appreciation by a nomination at Paris.

WEARS A COLLAR.

When President Roosevelt was about to leave on his western trip he was called on by a delegation of the prominent members of his party and was compelled to revise his tariff and "trust busting" speeches to be delivered on the trip, or take the consequence of defeat or attempt at defeat in the next Republican national convention. The revision was made at their dictation, and, inasmuch as he had not time to rewrite all his speeches he used some of the warmed-over speeches that were satisfactory to the tariff barons. The speech that he delivered at Minneapolis on April 4 is almost verbatim the speech delivered by Secretary of War Root at Cooper Union, New York, last October. If any man doubts it let him get them and make the comparison. This simply shows how the President is being dominated by the trust interest of the country and what a hollow mockery is all this hue and cry about "busting the trusts."

It had been said in sincerity, Roosevelt made President would represent the people, all of the people; as near as Republican methods would admit, but here it is, "Busting the Trusts" by letting them alone to feed greedily on the people.

TRUSTS FAVORED.

Who has read any comment on the comparative smallness of the Steel Trust's taxes? Its report shows that it paid taxes to the amount of $2,397,466 in 1902. This is less than 2 per cent of its net earnings and less than 2 mills on every $100 when the unretarded common people pay $2 or $3 on every $100 worth of property? It is probable that this trust pays less than $1,000,000 of taxes on its iron and steel lands, valued at over $100,000,000. This is less than one mill on the dollar. The taxes on ordinary farm lands worth $100,000,000 are about $15,000,000.

Is not this favoritism? Is it not taxing out competition? Will the reader stop for reason and answer the question; what political party is responsible for this condition of affairs? Will they further consider that freed of competition, labor will be cut, output advanced, taxes on competitive business stopped and that the consumer must pay the advance demanded by the greed organization, and more for the reason that competition has been forced to close doors. The taxes they paid must go on the farmer, the merchant, the woman in the boarding house, the banks. Reason brings no other conclusions and if men would vote according to the interests of the masses organized capital investments would be on equality with all other interests.

Why Green!

Because he is the best clerk in the State and a man against whom nothing can be said. Though his name appears last on the ballot the voter should see to it that they mark opposite his name.

Capt. W. T. Havens, of this city, will be retained as a deputy, in case of Mr. Greene's nomination and election.

Regardless of what some Democrats have preached the Primary will be fair to all.

Saturday is the date of the Democratic Primary and every Democrat should express his choice at the polls.

Assassinated.

Jas. B. Marcum, who was formerly a resident of this city, and studied law with Wood & Day and after being admitted to the bar was married to Miss Abrella, daughter of our former citizen D. D. Hurst. He went to Jackson, and by arduous toil, application, using his native powers to best advantage, becoming the leading lawyer of Jackson and one of the leading attorneys of eastern Kentucky was assassinated Monday morning in the very door way of the temple of justice. The assassin up to this writing is unknown and his identity may never be known. In the thriving town of Jackson men are appalled because of this most daring of all Kentucky tragedies, and through fear dare not give expression to an honest conviction as to who the assassin is. Mr. Marcum had been attending to legal business and was standing in front of the courthouse talking with a friend when the assassin's bullet pierced his body and head—two deadly shots having been fired. No news after first telegram have gone out to the press, but special correspondents are now on the field.

Fatal Accident.

W. S. Bronston a prominent lawyer and politician, of Lexington, was accidentally shot and killed while poking his grip to go to Richmond where he was billed to make a speech in the interest of Mr. Henry Bowditch, candidate for State Treasurer. The pistol caught in a bureau drawer, causing it to discharge, the ball taking effect through the stomach, passing through its piercing liver and lodged near vertebrae. Mr. Bronston was taken to the hospital where after being barely able to tell of the accident, expired. He will be a great loss to Lexington, and his many friends over the State deplore the sad ending.

To the Democrats of Montgomery County.
Sometime ago I announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and prosecuted my canvass in different parts of the State. As to whether I would have been successful was another thing, and acting upon the advice of friends who had and have my real interest at heart, I effected a combination with Hon. J. Morgan Chinn, also a candidate for said office, and in the event of his nomination and election, I will be named by him as his chief deputy.
I have served the people of this county in a clerical capacity for a long number of years and my record as such is known to you.
I earnestly ask that you support Mr. Chinn, in his race, for in so doing you aid me in securing a fine position, and also an opportunity for future advancement and success in life. Sincerely
39-41 W. B. O'CONNELL.

The event of Spencer is the Duff-Horton wedding which occurred at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Frank Horton at Camargo. The reception, by the groom's relatives here, was largely and happily attended. Never did a worthier pair embark on a smoother matrimonial sea than Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Duff. We wish them "Bon Voyage" and, at its close, safe anchorage in a heavenly port.

The hospitable homes of Mr. J. T. Coons and Mr. Isaac Youcum have been thrown open recently to welcome the Finch Club. Violin music by Mr. Coons and Mr. Jim Orzer, accompanied on piano by Mrs. Martin Ramey, formed a pleasant feature on the first occasion, while the improvised quartette, consisting of Messrs. Squires and Lockridge, and Misses Pearl and Emma Coons added much to our enjoyment at the latter. Misses Pearl and Emma Coons and Miss Willie Youcum are certainly charming hostesses; and the refreshments? Well, there are some things indescribably delightful. Words fail us.

B. F. Herriott, one of our horsemen of fine judgment, sold two fine pairs of horses this week. A pair of geldings to Lockridge & Fessler, choice ones, well worth the money and that will bring more than double by their handling. Price paid for this choice pair $800. Another pair of good mares he sold to Dr. Wintz, of Pennsylvania, for $500. Lockridge & Fessler sold to the same gentleman, Dr. Wintz, a gelding for $800. Our people are beginning to get fair prices for their maturing and handling. They buy the horses green, and after much training, handling and feeding at great expense, put them on the market. TRIPLE CHIEF

Nine years old; 16½ hands high; blood bay with black points; white in face as characteristic of Indian stallions; well set long ears; extra limbs and feet. Triple Chief is a horse of great finish; a black mare in action, and full of speed.

TRIPLE CHIEF will make the season of 1907, at Sunnyside, three and one-half miles from Mt. Sterling, on Grassy Kick Turnpike, at $200 For a Living Colt. Money due when colt is foaled or more mated with, or bred to another horse. Lies on colt until service is complete.

TRIPLE CHIEF by Sims Clark Chief, 2110. First dam by Harrison's Chief, 2842; Second dam by Old Indian Chief, 2842; Third dam by Collier's Chief, 2842.

Sims Clark Chief, sire of George L., 2325; George T., 2326; Jennie W., 2327; and the dams of J. H. L., 2328; Lou Clark, 2329; and the dams of Lou Clark, 2329; and the dams of Lou Clark, 2329.

Harrison's Chief, sire of George L., 2325; George T., 2326; Jennie W., 2327; and the dams of J. H. L., 2328; Lou Clark, 2329; and the dams of Lou Clark, 2329.

Students of Kentucky Harness Horses disagree as to the relative greatness of Harrison's Chief, Old John, and Triple Chief. One or the other holds first place with no other contestant, save Old Indian Chief.

Triple Chief should settle the question for this generation, representing Old John as his sire, Harrison's Chief as his dam, and Old Indian through his 2nd dam, a combination of blood lines unequal, which must perpetuate the greatness of the sire.

The intelligent breeder of today recognizes four essentials in the successful competition for honors and prizes—bulk, vitality, action, size and speed. The former demands a horse of almost perfect form. We feel in offering Triple Chief for public service, that he has no equal in these essentials, and would have if blood lines are a guarantee. He stands 16½ hands, braced by two dams 16 hands, and throws size, as his colts testify.

Old John is without a peer as the sire of harness horses, roadsters and coach horses. Harrison combines the above with the grace and finish that make him and his get the show horses of the World. A spout of geldings, sons of these two sires sold for $100.

Glorious Red Cloud, the $100,000 Winner in the show ring, was by a son of Harrison's Chief, and the $5000 product of our own country, is the result of the cross of Harrison's Chief and a blood. No other living sire offers these three covered blood lines, Old John, Harrison and Indian. We predict that Triple Chief will be crowned King of Kentucky Sires. His colts, his individuality, and his ancestral achievements are the guarantee.

At the same place my celebrated Black Jack, Triple Chief, 16 hands, will make the season of 1907, at Sunnyside, three and one-half miles from Mt. Sterling, on Grassy Kick Turnpike, at $200 For a Living Colt. Money due when colt is foaled or more mated with, or bred to another horse. Lies on colt until service is complete.

This is The Country's Duty: Let The South Alone.

When President Roosevelt emerges from the Yellowstone Park he will find the door of opportunity open to him for another pronouncement on the race question. Since he secluded himself in the white discussion of it has been actively renewed. The occasion for this renewal was the address of ex-President Cleveland at the Hooker Washington meeting in this city last week, in which he agreed unreservedly with the stand first taken by the "American" in this age, when Mr. Roosevelt, as a leader for colored delegates to the next National Republican Convention, set the whole South aflame.

It will not surprise the President to learn that the Southern press indorses Mr. Cleveland's speech with the same heartiness that it has indorsed the utterances of this journal on the same subject.

But there is something else that will give concern to Mr. Roosevelt, because of its political significance. Not a few Northern newspapers, classified as Democrats, which were for a time disposed to support him in forcing negro officials upon hostile communities, have taken the back track. They were speedily made aware that the "American," and not they, spoke for the Democratic sentiment of the nation and that silenced them. The appearance of Mr. Cleveland on the "American" side has emboldened them to fall into line.

And more: On entering the Yellowstone the President already had had it borne in upon him that many Northern Republicans regretted his attempt to resurrect sectionalism. When he comes out it will be to face the fact that the number of such Republicans has greatly increased. The intelligence of his party knows that he has made a mistake—and so does he.

Among the scores of speeches which the President has yet to deliver before his tour shall end it is not unreasonable to expect that at least one will be devoted to the race problem at the South and its relation to it. And this speech may well prove to be novel as well as important. Everybody knows in advance what Mr. Roosevelt will say when he takes the tariff, or the trusts, or the duties of citizenship, or the army and navy, or Cuba, or the Philippines. But this is not the case when he has the race question for his topic.

In November last, for example, he declared that "it is, and should be, my consistent policy, where the numbers warrant it, to recognize colored men of good repute and standing in making appointments to office."

That is, where negroes are few and the "recognition" of them would produce neither trouble nor delegates, they must not look for office, whereas where their numbers are large and trouble follows if they are recognized, there they will get office.

Thus spoke Mr. Roosevelt frankly as a politician. But in March last, in his letter to Mr. Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, he said:

"I cannot treat mere color as a bar to holding office, or more than I could to trust or hireplace—always providing that in other respects the applicant or incumbent is a worthy and well-behaved American citizen."

That was Mr. Roosevelt, the friend of man, the opener of the door of hope and opportunity, the vower of high and noble opinions, who cares nothing about "numbers" and "recognition."

The "American" declined to accept Mr. Roosevelt in his second and softer aspect. It saw in his actions not the doctrine, but a principle regardless of consequences to himself or others, but the politician maneuvering for a nomination, who, in order to achieve

Dr. Miles' Nerve Cured Me.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve brings rest and sweet sleep to the tired brain worn out with the cares and anxieties of the sick room. Read the following:

"I have always been healthy with the exception of a touch of rheumatism once in a while, and up to the time of my husband's last illness some years ago. I assisted in nursing my husband for nearly three months when he departed this life and the mental strain I felt could not be described. When from extreme nervousness my trouble commenced with more than usual severity. A physician gave me purgative doses which weakened me very much and my stomach for a time seemed inactive. Mental strain and the domestic condition of my stomach soon told upon my general health. I had little appetite and was soon forced to stay in bed a greater part of the time. Within a week after the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve and Tonic I was up about the house. I continued their use until completely cured. My faith in Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve was strengthened by experience of other people, our daughter having used Restorative Nerve with splendid results in a case of para-lysis and a friend to whom I sent a box of the Anti-Pain Pills reports that she has been completely cured of neuralgia by their use. I know of 6 number of others whom your medicine has helped in various ways. I know of 6 number of others whom your medicine has helped in various ways. his purpose, set race against race in a section of our common country which carries a great load but nevertheless is steadily bringing its social life under safe and livable conditions. Therefore the "American" rebuked Mr. Roosevelt, rebuked him strongly, rebuked him frequently. And in these rebukes it was joined by all Northern newspapers which believe that it is more important that the long-suffering South should have peace than that any man should be President. Hence it was that Mr. Roosevelt in his letter to Mr. Howell turned sharply upon the "American" and said:

"I have been surprised and somewhat pained at what seems to be the incompressible outcry in the South about my actions—an outcry apparently started in New York for reasons wholly unconnected with the question nominally at issue."

With these examples of his versatility before us it may well be anticipated that when the President again utters himself on negro appointments he will supply fresh reasons for his policy.

But no matter what President Roosevelt may say or do, the "American" will continue to demand justice for the South. From the beginning we have understood and expressed the true Democratic attitude on the negro question. Consequently, while it gives us profound pleasure it causes us no surprise to find Democratic newspapers and Democratic public men at the North who were among the halting now ranging themselves on the right side.

It is the civilized side, the American side, the side of a patriotism that knows no sectional lines but embraces the Union.

In taking this side there is no unkindness to the negro. The people of the South understand him best and are his best friends. Nowhere else is heartier encouragement given to Booker T. Washington, the ablest of colored men, in his efforts to uplift his race along the road of education, industry, sobriety, self-control and economy. Nowhere else is the negro afforded so many avenues of employment, nowhere else are his relations with the whites so kindly.

But the South, in whose memory live vividly the horrors of the Reconstruction saturnalia, is resolved that never again shall it suffer under negro domination.

In that resolve it has the sympathy and support of the Democratic party of the North. Indeed, the South has with it all men whose good sense is not mastered by political partisanship.

What the "American" said on March 4, when Mr. Roosevelt attributed to its influence the outcry against his cause, we here repeat:

"The 'American's' opposition to the President's policy is based upon a knowledge of the Southern people and the requirements of their difficult situation. What we have said on their behalf has been inspired by a sincere desire to make known to their brethren of the rest of the country the conditions which surround and the feelings that control the whites of the region in which negro domination looms as a real and terrible menace. We have sought to convey to our common country the fact of the people of the South so that the people of the North may, through understanding, extend the honest sympathy and assistance which the people of the South deserve in their efforts to solve a grave problem that bears upon them heavily, and the seriousness of which the civilized world appreciates."

"The outcry apparently started in New York for reasons wholly unconnected with the question nominally at issue, is founded on a desire to eliminate the race problem in the South, where it presses in daily life and enters into every home, from cheap partisan politics. The supreme requirement as to the race problem is this:

"Let the South alone!"—New York American.

John K. Hendrick Withdraws.

John K. Hendrick in the following signed statement to the public issued today formally announces his withdrawal from the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor:

"I am no longer a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. After consulting with a large number of my friends today in the city of Louisville, and after a long and mature deliberation it was decided that I could not win, as the time allotted for a canvass of the State was too short to meet with even a reasonable percent of the Democratic voters. Up to the present I have been enabled to canvass less than forty counties of the one hundred and nineteen counties in the State, and on the eve of the primary I realize that it is impossible to confer with or present to the members of my party."

"On account of the friends who have so generously supported me I regret exceedingly by the necessity which impels me to this step, but I do not desire to compete in a hopeless contest, or do anything that will further embitter the already strained conditions of the Democracy of the State. I have been devoted to the interest of my party since I attained my majority and I willing now to sacrifice my personal ambition for harmony in the party that I seriously believe stands as the sole representative of the plain people of our great country."

"To those who have so generously professed me their support, I desire to return my most grateful acknowledgments, and I beg to assure those who have questioned my Democracy that I stand ready now to follow my party's flag to the last ditch.

(Signed)

POWELL COUNTY ITEMS.

The farmers of this valley are very much discouraged on account of the long and continued wet weather and so far but little ground has been broken for spring planting. Red river has often in the past two months been out of its banks and over the great bottom fields where the principal corn crops are to grow.

The marriage of Prof. F. P. Tracy, Superintendent of Powell county schools, to Miss Laura Ringo, of Clay City, took place last week. The nuptial knot having been performed by county Judge Derickson in the Circuit room, in the presence of Judge Benton and the bar and also a large number of admiring friends who wish the Superintendent and his bride a long and happy future.

WE FACE DEFEAT!

'Remember the Waterloo of 1852!'

So Says General Palmer, Charging That Odell, Has Disrupted the Whole Party.

Gen. John Palmer, who was elected Secretary of State with Governor Levi P. Morton and re-elected with Governor Frank S. Black, has openly charged.

That Governor Odell has been secretly building up a political machine of his own almost from the day of his inauguration.

That, by this act, Odell has brought the Republican party of the State to a crisis equal to the famous feud of 1851, which resulted in the election of Grover Cleveland as Governor and later as President and lost the State to the Republicans until 1893.

That Odell owes all he has been, and is will be in politics to Platt. That Odell has proved himself an ingrate.

That the Odell Platt feud portends defeat for the Republican party in 1904.

"There is nothing for Platt to do but fight or yield," was General Palmer's terse summary.

General Palmer drew the following parallel:

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN WATERLOO.

"Conkling and Platt accused Garfield of having broken faith with them in 1881. There followed the Republican Waterloo of 1882, which made Grover Cleveland Governor and afterward President.

"Odell is accused of having broken his word to Platt. Will Lou Payne's prophecy that we shall lose New York State by 100,000 be fulfilled?"

Then he proceeded to describe the similarity in the situations of 1881 and 1903.

General Palmer continued: "It really looks as if the Republican party was face to face with a factional battle like that of twenty-two years ago."

"It's too bad, too bad! And it seems that there is really less excuse for it than there was then."

"Platt and Odell are the last men in politics that I would have dreamed two years ago would ever have fallen apart."

"I never heard of Odell until Platt made him a member of the State Committee and then advanced him rapidly to the chairmanship of the State Executive Committee, and then twice to the Governorship of the State."

"Platt, for years, regarded Odell with as profound an affection as he said, that his own sons. I very much fear that Odell has not returned that affection."

"Everybody who has watched him has been cognizant that, almost from the day he was inaugurated, he has been either secretly or openly building up a machine of his own. Now he seems to be right out in the open against Platt, and so his friends assert, claiming the title of State chief."

"Well, in such a situation, there is nothing for Platt to do but fight or yield."

"I never knew him to yield, except to superior force or what he regarded as superior judgment."

FORESEES REPUBLICAN DEFEAT.

"It appears to me that Odell has been a bit hasty with the retirement of Senator Platt. Odell would naturally have succeeded him as State leader. Now he will probably have to fight for the title."

"It is a mighty nasty predicament we are in on the eve of a Presidential conflict. My hope is that the Democrats will not get together."

"Unless Platt and Odell can reach a compromise of some sort the prospects for Republican victory in 1904 will be small indeed."

Roscoe Conkling and Thomas C. Platt were the United States Senators from New York in 1881. James A. Garfield had recently become President.

Conkling and Platt were appointed the President purposed to appoint William H. Robertson Collector of the Port of New York. Robertson had been their bitter political opponent. They joined in protest.

The President agreed, so they said, that he would make no selection without consulting them. James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State, visited the President and insisted that his friend Robertson be named.

The following morning Conkling and Platt were astounded to hear Robertson's nomination read from the Senate desk. Despite their opposition the nomination was confirmed.

THE DODD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colic and many other ailments disappear when constipation is relieved. Dodd's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original Dodd's Black-Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.

St. Louis, Ark., May 25, 1901.
I cannot recommend Dodd's Black-Draught too highly. I keep it in my house all the time and have used it for several years. I never gave my children any other laxative. I think I could on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicines are all that keeps me up.

SPLIT ELECTED CLEVELAND.

The Senators resigned and appealed to the Legislature then in session. Garfield and the National Administration selected Warner Miller and Elbridge G. Lapham, and after a three months' battle elected them to succeed Conkling and Platt.

Conkling and Platt formed the stalwart faction to fight re-administration. Vice President Arthur, with Miller, headed the "half breeders." They forced the nomination of Charles J. Folger, Secretary of the Treasury, for Governor. The stalwarts revolted.

Grover Cleveland beat Folger by more than two thousand. Two years later Cleveland carried the State again and was elected President. The Republicans failed to recover the State until 1893. Odell met Platt in New York a fortnight ago. After a long conference Platt announced that, though the appointment of John McCullagh for superintendent of Elections had not been absolutely agreed on, there would be no session until he and the Governor had conferred again. Last Thursday the Governor, without consultation with Platt, but after a secret conference with Seth Low and Francis V. Greene, his political adversaries, nominated George W. Morgan for McCullagh's place.

ODELL'S "DEFI" TO PLATT.

Morgan was first deputy for William Travers Jerome, who, throughout the 1901 campaign, assailed Platt day and night from the stump.

The Governor defiantly admitted that he did not consult Platt, saying: "My interference was sufficient."

Platt replied: "I do not know Morgan. I've seen a good many men bite the dust. He laughs best who laughs last."

Odell men are lining up behind their chief for as aggressive a fight for control of the delegates to the next State and National conventions as did Garfield and Arthur prosecute against Conkling and Platt in 1881.

Platt is rallying his henchmen all over the State for a struggle that involves his title to the chieftainship of the Republican machine.

Already the Odell combine has tentatively adopted the name of the "Tapeworms," which was assumed by the Governor's Congressional friends at their Washington soirees and which is used to signify their gatherings at the executive mansion here.

The Platt men have yet to adopt a title for their organization. "The Basics" was suggested to day, the name being adapted from the title of the "Easy Road," by which the Senator has been popularly known for many years.

POOR CROP PROSPECTS.

The weekly crop report does not show an especially pleasing state of affairs in Kentucky. The weather has wrought great damage:

"Cold, cloudy weather with frequent rains delay farming operations seriously and checked the growth of all vegetation. Frost occurred in many places on the 22d and 23d of April, but no serious damage resulted."

"Wheat has grown very slowly and in many places is turning yellow. Rye is in good condition and winter oats are looking well. Spring oats are late and not all sown."

"Tobacco plants are late and small, but fairly plentiful. There is some complaint of damage by insects."

"Corn planting was greatly delayed by rain."

"Grass is in excellent condition, but has advanced very little during the past few weeks."

"Gardens are at a standstill, due to the continued cold, cloudy weather. Outcrops are plentiful in some localities."

"The peach crop will be almost a failure, but other fruits are generally in fair condition."

JAMESON—Died, Monday May 4, of stomach trouble, Milton, the 3-year-old son of E. Smith Jameson and wife, at their home in Jellico, Tenn. His remains were brought here Tuesday and after service at the grave by Rev. H. D. Clarke, were buried in Macphelah cemetery. This is the fourth child that has been taken from these sorrow-bearing parents. Their first children, three in number, having been consigned to one grave. These sorrows are hard to bear, but beyond the earthy life is hopes fond and enduring. The children are flowers in Heaven's garden and the eternal association is well worth the times of loneliness and sadness here. These good people have the profound sympathy and prayers of the redeemed, that the Lord's grace may be sufficient for them now. Mr. and Mrs. Jameson were accompanied by Mr. Sam McCombs and wife of Jellico, Tenn.

CARMODY—Message was received here from St. Louis announcing the death of William Carmody in that place, and on receipt of the day morning papers the sad story was told. William Carmody son of Thomas Carmody, was born and reared here. Three years ago he went to Chicago and for eighteen months worked in a freight office. He returned here and last February enlisted at Lexington in the U. S. army, 20th regiment, company E, and was stationed at Columbus, Ohio. With his company he went to St. Louis to take part in the World's Fair ceremonies where he met with the sad death. The only intelligence in our possession is this: He was run over by a street car late Saturday evening and killed. His body was badly mangled. Remains are expected here to-day, and on arrival funeral service will be held by Rev. DeW. Hasencamp and remains will be buried in St. Thomas cemetery. He leaves a father, step-mother, four sisters and one brother to mourn his sudden end.

Public School Contest.

The Vocal and Declamatory Contest of the Public School to select representatives for the Blue Grass Tournament was a decided success. Finished work was done by the pupils in both departments.

For vocal solo, Mr. Gemmill Senff was awarded the victory. "I'm Wearing My Heart Away For You" was rendered with a pathos of expression, the fullness and roundness of tone which is so highly appreciated in our talented young townsmen.

Mr. Tabb Bassett, his opponent gave a classical selection, "Rome of June," in a pleasing manner. His tones were fine and much pleasure was felt in hearing a new baritone of such promise.

Misses Lillian and Lodema Wood were successful in "The Quarell," a vocal duet. These youthful musicians sang well, acted gracefully and artistically showing careful and thorough training. The opposition duet, "Oh That We Two Were Maying" sung by Misses Rosalind Rogers and Marian Groves was a highly artistic piece of work, rendered by two cultivated voices.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was a piece of very juvenile work, a duet by Masters Vaughn Joplin and Henry Gunn. These two young gentlemen showed great conscientiousness in their work which was exceeding ill well done.

The solo by Miss Rosalind Rogers was a very cultivated production by a thoroughly trained voice.

The quartette, "There LITTLE Girl Don't Cry," sung by Messrs Gemmill Senff, Tabb Bassett, Robert Turner and Norman Brown, was one of the best things ever given here, four good voices, well blended, produced a perfect musical harmony.

The Tournament Chorus composed of twenty good voices rendered an artistic and pleasing melody.

Mr. Gemmill Senff the first speaker gave "The Light From Over the Range." This young gentleman possesses normal degree of histrionic talent and his rendition of this pathetic incident showed no traces of the amateur but was the polished gem of the thorough artist. By a unanimous decision the medal was awarded to him.

The two other contestants for male declamation, Messrs Lewis Judy and Lloyd Fraser showed careful training. Mr. Judy's impersonation of Mr. Peckwick and Mrs. Hardwell was great. His recitation was well given and thoroughly enjoyable.

Mr. Lloyd Fraser in "Home Sweet Home," showed much talent well developed by careful training.

For Female declamation the medal was awarded to Miss Grace Ogg. An extremely difficult selection "The White Cow" was spoken by her in such a sympathetic and thrilling manner as to hold the concentrated attention. She was the personification of grace and ease.

Miss Mary Lockridge spoke "The Legend of the Organ Builder" in a most pleasing and artistic manner.

We can safely say this was the best contest ever given by the Public School and a much higher grade of work done. With such home works we predict several fine entertainments during Tournament week.

To the Democrats of the 10th Congressional District.

On the eve of the primary election to be held Saturday, May 9th, I earnestly appeal to you to support the Hon. J. Morgan Chinn for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. By reason of Mr. Chinn's great fight in the Legislature for cheaper school books for the people of Kentucky he has arrayed against him in this race, the American Book Company, who is doing everything in its power to bring about his defeat and it is up to the people of Kentucky as to whether it will succeed.

Under an arrangement with Mr. Chinn, I am to be his Chief Deputy in the event of his election, thus giving to the people of the district one of the most important offices in the State.

I earnestly ask you to vote for Mr. Chinn, and to get your friends and neighbors to do likewise.
